

CONSTRUCTION EMPLOYERS

Does this sound familiar?

You want to hire an estimating professional.....

You wonder ... does your future employee have all the skills & knowledge they claim?? How can you be sure he or she knows exactly what they are doing?

The applicant might have some field experience and maybe a even few years of estimating experience*, but no document or credentials, which show what they can bring to the job?

Would you like some type of proof on their resume or a job application that can give you more assurance? Until now you had to just take a chance.

Maybe you need to consider a prerequisite for these applicants....

Sign them up to take:

The American Society of Professional Estimator's

Estimating Proficiency Exam (EP2)

- Developed by the ASPE Certification Board, administrated by the ASPE Standards Board and proctored by CPE's, this exam is designed to be a "snapshot" showing the non-certified** candidate's general estimating knowledge.
- Exams will be administered at a location near you. Exams will take a few hours, (up to 4 will be allowed). Exam cost to ASPE members $200 / non members $250.
- Passing candidates will receive a certificate of completion for the "EP2" exam from the American Society of Professional Estimators

For more information send us an email to:

info@aspenational.org

or visit the ASPE website at www.aspenational.org

[* minimum of 2 years] [**for information about the ASPE certification of estimators
~ please see our website]

American Society of Professional Estimators